- Attempt All Three Questions.
 - All Questions Carry Equal Marks.
1. Describe and analyze any three fundamental philosophical thoughts of your choice from the prescribed study material in each of the ancient, modern and contemporary periods of philosophical perspectives. You may conclude the answer with your assessment.
 2. Jean-Paul Sartre says, "As far as men go, it is not what they are that interests me but what they can become." Elaborate Sartre's philosophical analysis of human existence with the help of the above-mentioned quote.
 3. Define ethical perspective. Aristotle contends, "Happiness is an activity of the rational part of the soul in accordance with virtue." State and discuss Aristotle's ethical perspective with the help of the above-mentioned quote. You may conclude the answer with a critical assessment.
